Record-Breaking Research Funding

At our annual research symposium, which was hosted by Duke University in North Carolina in late September, the foundation awarded research grants totaling $445,000 — the largest amount ever awarded by the foundation and 43 percent more than last year — to 14 researchers. The foundation remains the largest private funder of brain aneurysm research in the nation, thanks to the generosity of thousands of supporters. Since its inception, the foundation has distributed more than $2.1 million in research grants. A gift of$10,000 will establish a named Research Chair to fund a researcher for one year.

Awareness Month Highlights

Every year, Brain Aneurysm Awareness Month has a greater reach and impact, with this year being the most successful yet!

Here in Massachusetts, the foundation held its first statewide Brain Aneurysm Awareness Day on September 25 at the Massachusetts State House in Boston, where Governor Charlie Baker spoke passionately about the need to raise awareness about brain aneurysms to a large gathering that included survivors, family members, and the press. That evening, landmarks around the state were illuminated in red. Our goal is to have this type of awareness event in each state throughout the year. If you have a contact at the state level, please e-mail us at office@bafound.org

- Thanks to the efforts of BAF volunteer and survivor Tom Tinlin and the Massachusetts Department of Transportation, digital billboards throughout the state displayed our messages during September, reaching hundreds of thousands.
- At hospitals around the country, healthcare professionals teamed up with survivors to host informational tables where passersby could ask questions and pick up our free educational materials.
 Watch our awarness video here.
- Via a social media campaign, the foundation continued to raise awareness about the risk factors and warning signs of brain aneurysms with more than 200 posts on Facebook, 75 Tweets, and multiple e-mails.
